

Chapter2: Latin America
"Trip to Argentina"
Told By: Cristiano Ronaldo
Written By: Jason Rivera

Argentina is so awesome! My name is Cristiano Ronaldo me and my friend are planning to go to Argentina. Tomorrow is our trip we are going to Buenos Aires Argentina people have told me that Argentina is a beautiful place with a lot of nice people and the wind in Argentina is soft and warm. The next day I woke up I looked outside it was sunny and it was raining the road looked wet and dirty. I got ready packed all my stuff in my suitcase and called my friend Alfredo to see if he was ready. He was waiting for me outside his house he was there with the luggage he had two suitcases his house was really small he got in my car and said lets go we need to get to the airport fast. I said happily we are traveling to Argentina and we were both happy. We got to the airport.

There we were waiting to be called so we could go to Argentina finally after two hours they said people flying to Buenos Aires Argentina come on down me and Alfredo ran like crazy because it was our first time traveling we were so happy that when were running I accidentally tripped and fell on the floor. We were flying two hours later we were hungry because we didn't have breakfast that morning I looked through the window and all I could see were clouds white fluffy clouds. It was at 12:00 midday when the people in the airplane came and gave us a ham and cheese sandwich and an apple juice I turned around to look at the view outside by the time I looked back at my food I saw Alfredo was already done with his ham and cheese sandwich so I started eating my sandwich it tasted so good it was only one slice of ham and melted cheese on top of it with two slices of bread but it tasted like I was eating a large pepperoni pizza from Papa John's. We landed the pilot said we are in Argentina everybody got up except for Alfredo he was asleep I woke him up he said this was a long trip I know I said but we are in Argentina I screamed when we got off the airplane I took a big sniff from the air I smelled the air it smelled so good I just felt so happy. I heard a lot of noise but it was the airplanes engine that made a big noise. We took our stuff and called a taxi but the problem was that they spoke Spanish and I didn't so Alfredo said don't worry Cristiano I took Spanish class in high school so I know a few words Alfredo called the taxi so it could take us to a hotel. We had arrived at a hotel called Holliday Inn.

We got off the taxi when all the sudden me and my friend Alfredo got hit on the head then we were kidnapped we were taken to this abandoned warehouse we woke up and felt like we were run over by a car we couldn't understand what the men were saying because they were speaking Spanish and we only spoke English. We were blind folded so we couldn't see anything I took the black bandana off my eyes I looked and told Alfredo that if we looked for an exit quietly we would be safe so we stood up and we were looking for an exit when all the sudden one of the guys spotted Alfredo I ran away I found a door and opened it that was one of the exits Alfredo didn't escape but Alfredo knows that I will try to rescue him he is my best friend and I won't leave him alone. So I went back to the hotel there was all the luggage on the floor I went and picked it up and I changed clothes and rented a car and bought some firearms I waited until midnight I went back to the warehouse I knew how to get back to it because I had remembered from the way back to the hotel. When I went back to the warehouse I knew everybody was sleeping I took a gun with me just in case something happened I saw Alfredo on the floor I told him to quietly run one of the guys heard a noise he stood up silently and picked up his weapon we stopped so the guy wasn't hearing anymore noises so he went back to sleep. We ran out of the warehouse and got in the car. On the way back we got lost we saw this isthmus it was really big so crossed the isthmus and we kept on going. We couldn't find our way back to the hotel but I had brought a lot of money with me in case we got lost. The next day we were not worried anymore because that day we were going to the mall get new clothes Alfredo woke up and said where are we why is there a lot of vaqueros in here and I said don't worry they are nice people they said we could stay here.

We went to a mountain that same day the mountain has such a nice view I said then Alfredo shouted look at those beautiful archipelagos and I saw them they were so beautiful that I thought I was dreaming. Argentina is not that industrialized but there are a few factories. I smelled this one thing and I went down the mountain it was food the people said if I wanted some of it and I said yes I tasted it and it tasted so good. In Argentina there is a big inflation because the people don't get paid that much and the prices rise faster for food and other stuff. There is a republic government in Argentina the people have the right to choose their leaders they count they can vote. A lot of eco-tourist go there just to see all the vegetation the vegetation is so big and beautiful. There is a cash crop in Argentina they produce lots of food. I don't see too many plantations here in Argentina but they do have a few. Argentina is not landlocked is not hurting people for the ability to trade.
